announcement of the law firm of Niebrugge & Maxfield that it has discovered the widow of Joseph W. Kendregen, a Waterbury (Conn.) silversmith, who died two years ago, leaving more than $200,000.

Mrs. Kendregen is nearly eighty years old and is living in San Francisco, where she went after her separation from her husband, more than fifty years ago. She is in ill health and poor, and the full extent of her good fortune has not been told to her, as it is feared the sudden announcement of relief from poverty might prove fatal.

A motion to allow her dower rights

A motion to allow her dower rights a Kendregen's estate was filed last Vednesday in the Probate court of Vaterbury, and Mrs. Kendregen will brought from San Francisco as soon a her health will permit the strain of the tribute.

According to the lawyers, Kendregen married Miss Mary Cahill in this city in 1855. A daughter was born, but shortly after the child's birth Mrs. Kendregen left her husband and went West.

The husband a year later got a divorce, alleging duress. Mrs. Kendregen's lawyers declare, however, that the divorce proceedings were not legal, as notice of the action never was served on the woman.

as notice of the action never was served on the woman.

After the divorce Kendregen moved to Waterbury, where he amassed a fortune as a silversmith. He died without leaving a will, and the first intimation of his early matrimonial venture was made through the public administrator, who found the dead man had been searching for his wife for more than two year previous to his death. The hunt was continued, and a month ago Mrs. Kendregen was discovered in San Francisco.

The daughter has not been found. Mrs. Kendregen was discovered to have compelled to place the child in an institution after her separation from her husband. When she returned to get the girl Mrs. Kendregen found the little one had been adopted, and that all trace of the hilld's foster parents had been lost.

FIREMEN BLINDED BY CLOUDS OF DUST IN FACTORY FIRE

The fire department used only chemipals last night at 7:30 o'clock in extinguishing a fire in the plant of the Wheel & Wood Bending Co. in John street. The fire was caused by spontaneous combustion as a result of fine saw dust which had collected on a steam pipe and the rafters of the building. The heat from the pipe ignited the sawdust. The alarm was sounded by the workmen in the plant of the United Illuminating Co. The firemen in order to eradicate the fire had to scrape the dust from the raftters, working in a cloud of dust that filled their nostrils and eyes, and gave them the appearance of workers in a flour mill. The damage will not exceed $50.

The new Congress street bridge is ginning to take on form and the big ooden frame for the first arch is completed. The width of the frame work gives a good idea of the great breadth of the structure and outlines the manner in which the openings between the plers are to be spanned.

"THE SPORTING DEACON" AT JACKSON'S NEXT WEEK

published in the Farmer, Tuesday evening, that Bridgeport have a first class athletic field and that the lovers of clean sport in this city get together and initiate a movement to this end, is meeting with favorable comment everywhere.

"The time has come," said a prominent business man, in speaking to a representative of the Farmer in regard to Mr. Porter's suggestions, "when this city should take hold of sport more energetically and systematically than in times past. I believe we have here the material for as fine a bunch of athletics as there is in the country. They have not come forward because they have not had the opportunity. When ever a Bridgeport boy has gone forth into other parts where there has been an opportunity he has almost invariably made good. There is no form of recreation so beneficial and enjoyable as amateur athletic sport, and I, for one, will certainly support any movement that may be inaugurated to establish it on a better basis in Bridgeport." nent business man, in speaking to a port."

The above is only typical of the expressions that have been going the rounds, and it begins to look at last as if Bridgeport were going to take hold of amateur sport in earnest. Certainly the number and enthusiasm of the spectators at the field and track sports held at Steeplechase, last Saturday, under the auspices of the United Irish-American Societies, if it augured anything augured that the people of Bridgeport will support clean amateur sport. If games held under such favorable circumstances meet with hearty support, how much more would games held under favorable circumstances, on a good field, and track, central located, be supported—that is the question! a good field, and track, central located, be supported—that is the question!

There has long been a need for an athletic field, not alone for the purpose of holding an occasional track meet as at Steeplechase, Saturday, but where the championshin games of the inter-city baseball, football, and other leagues might be held. Now it is necessary to travel to some lot in the outlying districts, and the attractiveness of the games are always greatly outlying districts, and the attractiveness of the games are always greatly marred by the inability of the spectators to see properly and the interference with the game due to the crowding onto the field which, despite the best efforts to the contrary, is at times impossible to prevent. The High School and Y. M. C. A. teams, too, have always been severely handicapped by lack of outdoor facilities for their practice and championship contests. Seaside Park is available but is Seaside Park is available not at all properly equipped for the purpose. Besides it is almost impossible to make any sports held down there a financial success. What Bridgeport plainly needs is a closed arena, with liberal and comfortable seating capacity, centrally located, with a first class field and track where all these various games may be held.

showed his regard for his friend
"Jack" (John) Hays Hammond to day by spending most of the afternoon in his company and lunching at his coming. Hammond had just got up from a sick bed, caused the President laughingly told him by his frequent defeats at golf. The real cause of Hammond's illness was the after effect of an operation for appendicitis. He is confident, however, that he will be strong enough in September to accompany the President over part of his western itinerary.

After his game of golf this morning with Captain Butt, Mr. Taft went to Mr. Hammond's residence in Gloucester for luncheon. Right after lunch he received a committee from the Gloucester Day Association which had its memorable pageant on August 4. These gentlemen expressed their regret that Mr. Taft did not see the display and the President congratulated them on their success. Mr. Hammond and Mr. Taft then started out on a long auto ride but refused to say what route they would take.

It was announced at the Executive Office to day that Mr. Nagel, secretary of commerce and labor, will come to Beverly to-morrow from his summer home at Marion to have a conference with the President about the remaining census appointments.

"You know the French people have the development of the bust and form down to a fine point.

"By this French method, the breasts may be developed from 2 to 8 inches in 30 days. This applies to women of almost any age, from young girls to elderly matrons, whether the bust is absolutely not developed at all, or has grown weak and flabby, and hangs, no matter from what cause.

"It is beauty of form that attracts much more than the features. You will always find it so with both sexes.
